Handwritten text in a South Indian script, likely Grantha or Tamil, on a palm leaf manuscript. The text is arranged in approximately 12 horizontal lines. Two circular holes are visible, used for binding multiple leaves together. Some characters are written in a larger, bolder script, possibly indicating a title or a specific section. The ink is dark and the leaf shows signs of age and wear.

Continuation of the handwritten text on a second palm leaf manuscript. The script is consistent with the first leaf. The text is organized into about 12 lines. Two circular holes are present for binding. The handwriting is clear but shows some fading and the natural texture of the palm leaf is visible. The overall appearance is that of an ancient or historical document.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general introduction of the subject, and to a statement of the objects of the present investigation. It is shown that the theory of the functions of the second order, and of the functions of the third order, is a very important branch of the theory of functions, and that it is necessary to have a clear and complete knowledge of the properties of these functions, in order to be able to apply them to the solution of the problems of the theory of functions.

2. The second part of the paper is devoted to a detailed study of the properties of the functions of the second order, and of the functions of the third order. It is shown that the functions of the second order, and of the third order, are very important in the theory of functions, and that they are necessary for the solution of the problems of the theory of functions.
